THE CALICO PARTY

soldiers are invited to be present,.

At the Meridian Rink Last Night a Grand Success.

Last evening was the time set for the calco party at the Meridian Rink. The house was decorated with Japan ese fans, parasols, 'anterns and flags, and presented a most inviting appearance. The floor was in excellent condition, and all who were in costume enjoyed themselves in a satisfactory manner. Those who attended as spectators were delighted with this rare opportunity of be ho'ding more genuine beauty wrapped in calico than the most fanciful imagination would ever picture. When silk, satin or velvet dresses are ordered, style and fit are the main features considered; but, in this instance, elegance was entirely foreign to the occasion, the all important questions being: "What can I wear?" "What will suit my natura. (?) complexion?" "Willblus be too trying?" Quite a number of the calico (?) dresses were evidently designed by a fashionable modiste, and we venture the conjecture that the liege lords of a fortunate few were so generous as to command the dresser to adorn his better-half with the calico robes that he had given order for .

The wretch who recently said, when referring to a handsome lady on Me.idian street, "It's money that makes her lovely," looked in for a few minutes last night on the happy throng, and then betook himself to some deserted spot where he might reflect and conscientiously repent the injustice he had done the fair sex by the utterance of such an outrageous expression.

At 9 o'clock the grand march was anto lead. About forty couples took part in this feature of the evening. At the conclusion of the march the musicians curled themselves up comfortably on their chairs, evidently prepared for the usual intermission of twenty or thirty min-utes; but as the stockholders of the rink were in readiness to dance off their exhibition the hora manipulators (noise dispensers) in the corner were, after considerable coaxing. induced to toot a little to keep up the courage of the dignitaries as they gracefully (2) glided over the glassy surface. Theo. Ptaillin was heard to say to his partner, as they steadily (?) rounded the "home-turn": "How they cheer and laugh in glee! What bright words of repartee are said as if to guy us!" While the spectators thought: Light as feet on velvet dancing fall the skates so gayly prancing as they friskily flit by us.

The exhibition referred to above was a contest between the stockholders for a hand some gold (?) medal, which had been ordered for the occason. When Mr. Pfsfilin discovered that ladies had been selected by Manager Murry to act as judges his countenance lighted up, and he was heard to say: "If my graceful skating does not put me in favor with them my winning smiles will." We are of the opinion that his winning ways were of no consaquence to the fire-proof, dignified four, but his superiority as a skatorial artist over his compatitors they were in duty bound to recognize, so without even a second ballot he was awarded the prize. Mr. P'sfilin's programme was, in the main, different from anything ever witnessed in this city, introducing, as it did, a variety of- Well, suffice it to say, he must be seen to be appreciated.

The following-named ladies and gentlemen were awarded prizes: Miss Lee, handsomest dress worn by lady.

Handsomest suit worn by gentleman, Mr. Largest necktie by gentlemen, Mr. Ed

Largest hat by gentlemen, Mr. Bert Wood. Largest apron by lady, Mrs. Thompson. Largest bonnet by lady, Miss Baroour. Homliest dress, Mrs. Dawson.

The Short-Horn Hreeders. The annual meeting of the short-horn breeders began yesterday. About twentyeight members of the association were present, and the meeting was presided over by Vice President Mitchell, the President, W. W. Thrasher, of Rush County, being absent. Several members who were to have read papers were absent. J. A. Thompson addressed the association on the "Early Maturity of Short-Horns as Compared With Other Breeds," This paper was a very interesting one and was listened to with marked attention. Mr. Thompson said that in his experience with cattle he had discovered that short horns were an improvement on common cattle; he had invariably found that short-horns were more profitable to the breeder, feeder, shipper and butcher Dr. J. Elliott, of this city, followed Mc Thompson with a paper on "Contagiona Cattle Diseases." Both papers were then discussed, and the association adjourned until this morning, when the election of flicers will take place.

Wigwam Rink .

The three-mile speed contest at the Wigmam Rink last night was a very handsom affair. There were six starters, but after one-third of the distance was skated the competitors were reduced to three in number. Mr. Walter Dean was the winner in 13:30, with Mr. John Alexander second and Mr. Chester Spain third. There was a goodsized audience, although the weather was rather inclement. The third of this series of races will be skated next Tuesday, the dis

THE ASYLUM FIRE.

Particulars of the Fre at the Insane Hospital.

Loss, $85,000, with no Insurance-How the Fire Originated-Inadequate Supply of Water.

The Sentinel of yesterday contained a brief account of a fire in progress at the State Hospital for the Insane, at the time of going to press. The account was as full as was possible to make it, owing to the fact that everything was in confusion and it was impossible to give details antil the fire was under control. This could not be accomplished until after daylight. and, although the fire was nearly entirely extinguished at that time, the Fire Department continued to work on the wreck u til 10 o'clock in the morning.

ORIGIN OF THE FIRE. The fire was the most disastrous which has yet occurred at the Hospital. It began in the boiler room, which is located in the double L building in the rear of the main building. This is where the fire occarred two weeks age, and Superintendent Fletcher and the other employes have been very anxious lest the fire should aga in break out in this part of the institution. The building is three stories high besides the basement and is separated from the main building, in which are the wards containing the patients, by heavy walls. In this are located the engine room, boiler room, store room, laundry, bakery, kitchen and chapel. In the center of it rises the smokestack, 175 feet high. Just how the fire caught could not be determined, but when Superintendent Fletcher heard the hurried walking of the employes about 2 o'clock he hastily dressed himself and went out to see was the cause, having a presentiment that it was the dreaded fire. smell of smoke was strong in the passage leading back from the dining room, but it was not until the engine room was reached that the fire was discovered. The fight against the flames began at once, nounced, which Frank Murphy and partner | and 100 hand grenades were soon broken immediately placed themselves in position | over the fire, almost entirely quelling it, but when these were gone the flames were observed working on the floor immedistely above this part of the building, and it was with sinking hearts that those present felt all hope of saving the block was past. For nearly half an hour the fight had continued and every one had forgotten to send in an alarm to the city. Finally when this was thought of it was not properly sounded. and the result was that the bells clashed and struck in the wildest and most uncertain manner, so that it was some minutes before the fire could be located. However, Chief Webster had been notified by telephone previous to the sounding of the alarm, and already had two engines on the road. As soon as the alarm was sounded two more companies responded, and these, with the Fire Chief in his light wagon, were all on a gallop for the scene of the conflagration. AN UNEQUAL FIGHT was kept up almost all the time by those who aided in subduing the fire. The hand grenades were good so far as they went, but it was found impossible to fight a fire which was already playing along underneath the flooring with these small ex-t nguishers. When the engines first arrived they began in a manner which promised to check the flames where they were found, but the water gave out, and by the time they were again ready to work, it was found necessary to fight the fire from the chapel. This could then only be reached by ladders, and the ladder wagon had not yet arrived. When the first cistern gave out the fire boys stepped back from the entrance where they had been at work on the chapel when he roof came crashing down, and with it a forty-foot beam, which struck end foremost apon the very spot where the brave fireman ad been standing. The first section of hose had been caught by the falling roof, and it was necessary to cut this loose and leave it to the mercy of the fire, which by this time was playing sad havoc with the block. The sky was literally painted red by the reflection, and was to be witnessed for many miles. But the other engines were now at work, and it was not long until all danger of fire to the main building was over. will reach $85,000, and is a loss more deaply felt because it includes those departments most in demand. The bakery can not be dispensed with, and although laundry work may be shridged, it must also be continued. The worst feature about it, however, is the mability to use the steam heating appaatus with which the 1 200 rooms in the Female Department are heated, This necessarily has caused an economy of what beat has been in the institution, and it is thought that by this mornng the connections can again be arranged for the proper heating of the wards. Superin endent Fletcher places the following estimates on the property destroyed: Machinery and engines$25,001 hapel and buildings sundry apparatus and clothing

This, however, may be reduced $10,000 when matters assume shape at the Hospital. The committee appointed by the Legislature to visit the scene of the conflagration vismids in the afternoon and will make a report to-day. Some of the walls. bough of heavy masonry, are badly cracked and will have to be rebuilt from he ground. Others may require but ittle work to make them as good as new The cooking for employes and patients is seing done in gas stoves, and the work of resairing the boilers steam pipes, etc., is al-eady going on. The want of water at the asylum is now elt to be the cause of most of the loss, as, with a proper supply, the flames could have neen checked in the boiler room and the door above. The wonder is that the loss has not been beavier. The well was originally intended to have been eighty feet deep, but for some reason it was dug only ofty-five feet. The seven cisterns about the building having a capacity of 2,000 barrels. and three of these were used by the engines, but for which the destruction would bave been greater. It is now being thought advisable to have a twelve-inch water main aid from the city. This will cost $25,000. and part of the cost of the work, if it is done, will be paid by citizens along the line of the road, who will thus be provided with protection against fire themselves. The inmates of some of the wards were considerably agitated, it was feared for a time that trouble would ensue with them. Occasionally one would be found who would shriek in a manner calculated to freeze the listner's blood. A few escaped and ran some distance from the building, but they were afterward returned to the wards, not having suffered except from the cold. The laundry and kitchen girls were forced from their beds, as their rooms were included in the burnt people, which was in the laundry. Dr. Fletcher I sioned by the imperfect transmission of his I

by his individual exertions saved from the | message. The first paragraph asks for $100 fire 200 loaves of bread, which he knew would be needed. The authorities gave an order for 1,500 loaves yesterday morning to meet the immediate demands of the insticution. At a late hour last evening every. thing was reported quiet at the asy um, and considering the exciting time of the previous night everybody was getting along very well. Temporary arrangements will be made for laundry and kitchen work, most of it being done at the old building. The management believes the cost of repairing the steam heating apparatus will be but small, and can be accomplished in a day or two so that it will be as good as ever.
